

Attributable to an NSO Spokesperson:

"The fact CitizenLab once again chose to brief the media rather than constructively engage NSO on alleged misuse demonstrates that they are more concerned with scoring PR points than genuinely attempting to improve public safety. We did not receive any data from CitizenLab, despite past efforts to engage with them. It is, therefore, almost impossible, and certainly irresponsible, to respond based on rumors from a third party. However, from the bits of information made available by media inquiries, it seems that once again CitizenLab has recycled information that does not make technological sense, and cannot be related to NSO or to the clients that operate our life-saving technology.

"As always, if NSO receives reliable information related to misuse of the system, the company will vigorously investigate the claims and act accordingly based on the findings."
